Sermon on the Mount

The sermon on the mount in Mat. 5 speaks of “blessed” are they which are …… you fill in the blank.

Poor in Spirit

Those that mourn

Hungry and Thirsty for righteousness

All have one characteristic common in each beatitude.

Brokenness

The breaking of our will to embrace his

The dying out to our ways to embrace his

The denial of ourselves to follow his

This is the essence of this message.

The blessings are in brokenness.

Psa_71:20 You have allowed me to suffer much hardship, but you will restore me to life again and lift me up from the depths of the earth.

The Psalmist writes of suffering

Hardship

Yet, hope

Because of experience we find Hope in future restoration no matter how low we find ourselves

Even tho the outside seems broken there can still be light shining bright on the inside.

The writer of this psalm speaks of intimate knowledge that

Broken things have a use too.

Even when life leaves you broken, unwanted and

feeling unloved.

No matter what

Those shattered pieces have a place in Gods masterful hands.

In fact those pieces belong in ONLY Gods hands

EMOTION OR FAITH

Trying to conquer things by the strength of your own emotion doesn’t make you free it enslaves you to dealing with everything emotionally.

Until there remains no emotion strong enough to give you victory

Its time to have faith. Just as the Lord brought Simon Peter a catch after toiling all night and nothing. God will always come through right on time.

You have been called by the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords,

the great I am the first the last

the beginning and the end

the great I am.

You are His and

He is yours.

Its time for the gifts and calling he has placed on you to be used to its fullest potential.

TRUST OR FEAR

Faith and the truth are the only thing that makes you free. By God’s grace given to you by the faith you let change your beliefs gives you victory

Trusting in the hands of God to fix things and put you back together will always be the greatest decision of your life.

IN SPITE OF THE BROKENESS

There are a few examples of folks that have dealt with brokenness, in many ways relate to our lives today.

Both the rich and the poor share in this one thing. Grief and loss and heartache and sorrow weigh down both equally. It levels the playing field if you will.

Act_27:1-44. (On the whole chapter.) Paul and His Fellow Voyagers—a Comparison and a Contrast.

I. The comparison.—

1. Partakers of a common humanity.

2. Bound for a common port.

3. Exposed to a common peril.

4. Subjects of a common deliverance.

II. The contrast.—

1. Grace and nature. With the exception of Luke and Aristarchus, Paul was probably the only Christian among them.

2. Discernment and dullness. Paul’s forecast of the storm, and the want of insight on the part of the centurion, the owner, the pilot and crew (Act_27:9-12).

3. Faith and unbelief. Paul’s confidence that no lives would be lost: their doubt of the correctness of this assertion (Act_27:22-26).

4. Courage and despair. Paul’s intrepidity throughout: their universal faintheartedness (Act_27:31-33).

5. Piety and wickedness. Paul’s prayers for (Act_27:24), and exhortations to (Act_27:25; Act_27:33-34) them; the baseness of the sailors (Act_27:30), and the inhumanity of the soldiers (Act_27:42).

III. The conclusion.

1. That all are not alike because they happen to sail in the same boat.

2. That common experiences do not always produce on different men the same effects.

3. That circumstances which call forth the nobility of the good frequently serve to evoke the meanness of the base.

4. That goodness makes the best leaders of men.
